In the picture: The trail to Tungnath. Circa Feb. 2009

The trek, in Chopta Valley, is set to walk one through picturesque villages, forests, 'Bugyals' (meadows) to highlight serene locales like 'Deoriya Tal', 'Tungnath' & 'Chandrashila'. The Chopta valley is home to thick Rhododendron forests, 'Bugyals' (meadows), the rare 'Kastoori Hiran' (musk deer) & the beautiful 'Monal' (pheasant) along with a variety of other wildlife.

While Tungnath is considered as the Pinnacle of 'Paanch Kedar', Chandrashila at 3640m is indeed the pinnacle of this trek. A lake Deoriya Tal faces a snow clad range with some prominent peaks like 'Kedar Dome' (6970m), 'Mahalaya' (5970m), 'Mandani Parbat' (6190m) and the mighty 'Chaukhamba' (7138m).

Situated on the banks of the mighty Ganga, getting here is in itself an experience. In an effort to maintain the grandeur of an isolated beach & jungle camp, it is at a distance of 2 km from the nearest road head on the Rishikesh-Badrinath highway. One has to walk for approximately 2km (30 mins), crossing a quaint jhoola pul (suspension bridge) and the age old pilgrim's path to Badrinath to reach the camp.

The camp, along with the property attached, would be the largest on the river including 2 beaches, a perennial green field & a waterfall close by. Accommodation is on twin sharing basis in comfortably large tents with independent toilets and separate hot and cold showers.
